Subject: Lender/Broker/REALTOR Training in Boise – February 25, 2009

IdaMortgage brought to you by Idaho Housing and Finance Association (IHFA) is hosting a session on "A Basic Overview of IdaMortgage Programs" including Advantage loan product updates in Boise on March 18 and April 22, 2009. Whether you are currently participating in an IdaMortgage loan program, or are interested in learning more about our programs, you won't want to miss this training session!

Jim Lau of IHFA's Homeownership Lending Department will conduct this training. He will be presenting a basic overview of the IdaMortgage loan program, including information on Advantage 30- and 40-year loan products. Features of these products include:

- Higher income limits
- No sales price limits
- No first-time homebuyer requirement
- No recapture provision
- Not a bond program, no regulatory documents required
- Fannie Mae desktop underwriter approval needed under My Community Mortgage or Flex programs
- May be used for purchase or refinance

Jim will also discuss our 2nd mortgage down payment and closing cost assistance program, Good Credit Rewards, as well as other excellent programs to combine with IdaMortgage loan programs. Broker training will also be given on the use of the new software system.

Continuing education credits are available for lenders and mortgage brokers through the Department of Finance. Participants completing the training will receive one credit for every class hour. These sessions are offered several times throughout the year. If you have already attended, you are welcome to come back for a refresher, but credits are only available to those completing the training for the first time. REALTORS® are also eligible for continuing education credits through the Real Estate Commission. The Real Estate Commission requires three hours for realtor credit.

Trainings will be held:

Date: March 18 and April 22, 2009
Time: 8:30 am to 11:30 am
Place: Idaho Housing and Finance Association
